GREEKS DEFEAT LAW

Switch Hats and Names in Police Court.

FOUR OUT OF 16 IDENTIFIED

Others Smirk While Judge Scores Health Inspectors Who Couldn't Remember, but There Will Be Another Reckoning, Say Stoy and Norris, Who Are Complimented.

Twelve fruit vendors escaped punishment in Police Court yesterday morning by swapping hats and names so that the health inspectors could not identify them. Judge Muldowney fined four $10 each, and lectured Inspectors Stoy and Norris for bringing in the others without having them tagged or classified.

But Health Officer Woodward complimented the inspectors on the successful prosecution of four, acknowledging the difficulty of pronouncing the names and remembering the faces, which are mixed Greek and Italian, with a large amount of Potomac Valley soil rubbed over the top.

They were captured Sunday by clever means in the houses where they were charged with sleeping and eating in one room parties and storing fruits and vegetables with horses and flies. They were only located by being followed home Saturday night and their addresses obtained. Previously they had given bogus street numbers. Warrants were issued Monday, and all were arraigned yesterday.

Can't Fool All the Time. "We'll get them next time," said Inspector Stoy, after the hearing.

"You bet we will," said Norris, with a wink, and they both smiled knowingly.

"My men have a method that will not fail when they go after these aliens again," said Health Officer Woodward, with an air of confidence.

There seems to be an understanding all around about future tactics.

HOME DISTURBER LOCKED UP. Daniel Kendrick Fails to Supply Bond in Police Court.

Daniel Kendrick was committed to jail yesterday in default of a $200 bond, demanded by Judge Kimball, in the Police Court, when Kendrick was adjudged guilty of making threats against his sister, Mrs. Julia Kidd, of 126 New Jersey avenue southeast. He will be later tried on a charge of destroying property. It is charged that after a dispute with his sister and members of her family, Thursday, he grabbed a hammer and tried to break up all the glassware, furniture, and crockery in the house.

CONTRACTORS BID HIGH. Proposals for Construction of New Workhouse Exceed Appropriation.

Contractors Pavarini & Wynne yesterday submitted the lowest bid for the construction of an administration building and male workhouse on the grounds of the Washington Asylum. Their bid was $111,000, being $28,000 above the appropriation allowed by Congress for the work.

Other bids opened at the District Building yesterday for the same work were Thompson-Starrett Company, $134,400; George A. Fuller Construction Company, $138,000.

It is understood an effort will be made to bring the bids within the limit of the appropriation, and in the event this fails proposals will be readjusted.

Glen Echo Park Offers Relief from City's Heat. "Get out of the wet" was a popular expression some years ago. But the proper advice at this particular season of the year is "Get out of the heat; go to Glen Echo Park."

Thus spoke a passenger on one of the cars of the Washington Railway and Electric Company, traveling down the river road from Glen Echo Park. It would appear this amusement seeker is not alone in that opinion, for the patronage at the park was of unusually large proportions last week.

Glen Echo Park offers every up-to-date amusement, and under auspices such as are to be found at few other resorts in this country. Its situation is such as to invite the best efforts of Old Boreas.

One of the most popular points of interest about the park is boasting on the canal. The management has boats of every description, from those good old sturdy rowboats that the "foolkiller" can't rock to the swift motor boats that make no other demands than in which a student of ease would delight.

There are boundless opportunities for every description of the "fun" and plenty of space in which to enjoy the fun.

RUB! RUB!! RUB!!!

In time you will probably have your silverware clean and shiny. Think of the labor you've had. And the time it has taken. A small electric polisher eliminates the question of labor altogether, and as to the time it takes—why you can make any amount of silverware look like new, all in a few minutes.

Besides, this little device can be used to sharpen knives or any other cutlery in use around the house. Uses very small amount of current.

AROUSED OVER NEGRO RUMOR

Department of Justice Employees Hear Unpleasant Report.

Suggestion that Boston Black Man May Receive Appointment Causes Much Excitement.

The suggestion that President Roosevelt may appoint W. H. Lewis, of Boston, Assistant Attorney General of the United States to succeed Alford W. Cooley, who resigned recently on account of ill health, has aroused the greatest excitement in the bureau brownstone building facing McPherson Square, in which the employees of the Attorney General's office are housed.

Some of the Southern men in the department do not view with composure the prospect that a negro may actually become the temporary head of that department. In summer, when the Attorney General is absent, the Assistant Attorney General acts as his substitute, signing papers and directing the work of the department.

Many distinguished Southern whites hold positions in the department, among them Col. John S. Mosby, former Confederate leader, who is a Republican, but a true Southerner for all that. Assistant Attorney General Russell is also a Virginian of the old school. Neither of these officials has expressed himself on the prospect of having to serve under a negro Attorney General. Many of the clerks and bureau chiefs in the department are on the verge of exploding over the bare suggestion.

Lewis is assistant attorney for the Eastern district of Massachusetts, at Boston. He is a graduate of Harvard, an athlete, and ably qualified for the office. His record as assistant attorney at Boston is admitted to be excellent at the Department of Justice.

Cole Gives a Bond.

S. W. Cole, for whom a warrant is held in this city, charging embezzlement of $37.15 from Kelley N. Sharp, of Commerce-City, gave bond of $1,000 at Floyd, Va., yesterday for his safe return to this city when he is wanted to appear before the court. Detective Berman, of the central office, was sent to Floyd to get the prisoner and returned empty handed. Cole is sick and unable to travel. He says the charges against him are more a matter for civil than criminal action.

FISHERIES CONGRESS TO OPEN

Initial Address on September 22 by Oscar Straus.

President Roosevelt Will Receive Delegates at the White House on Date to Be Selected.

An address of welcome by Oscar S. Straus, Secretary of Commerce and Labor, will formally open the International Fisheries Congress in this city on September 22, at the hall of the National Geographic Society, Sixteenth and M streets northwest.

Commissioner West will address the delegates on behalf of the District, and Dr. H. M. Smith, president of the American Fisheries Society, will respond.

After the meeting of organization to be held in the banquet hall of the New Willard, on the afternoon of September 22, the regular sessions will be held twice daily at that hotel.

The congress will be in session until September 28. The delegates will be entertained by the local members by sight-seeing trips, and visits to various points of interest in and about Washington.

President Roosevelt will receive the delegates at the White House. Secretary Straus will also give an evening reception in their honor. Luncheons will be given by the American Fisheries Society, the Blue Ridge Rod and Gun Club, and the Alaska Packers' Association.

At the official subscription banquet representatives of foreign governments will be the guests of the congress.

It is expected each one of the foreign delegates will attend the special reception arranged in their honor, at the diplomatic reception hall of the State Department, on the morning of September 22, when Secretary Root will welcome them.

The exact number of delegates who will attend the convention has not yet been ascertained.
